Subject: Silver Position Limits

I am in complete agreement with Mr. Ted Butler regarding position limits of all finite commodities. I do not even pretend to know all about these matters, but I know common sense when exposed to it.

Additionally, I have to add that it seems to me that you would be actively seeking Mr. Butler's input since he is acknowledged, at least outside of government circles, as the expert in matters pertaining to the silver industry. Your refusal to seek his advice is inexcusable in my eyes, and the very reason the average citizen has no faith government oversight agencies.

My high school motto was "Do right because it is right!" What more can say.

Respectfully,

William M. Collins 10412 Countryside Dr. Denton, TX 76207
